Mr. George Waterman, Chairman
Price River Water Users Assn.
Price, Utah

Dear Mr. Waterman:

In our recent meeting some discussion was centered around Gooseberry Reservoir. The main questions asked were, what is the capacity of this reservoir and who was the present owner? My investigation upon our return to Salt Lake revealed that the surface area storage of Gooseberry Reservoir was around 200 acre feet with probably at least one-half that much in addition being held in bank storage. The reservoir was built by the Fish and Game Department under Application No. 11922 on which Certificate No. 4102 was issued and they apparently still own the reservoir. Any negotiations for release of this water by your organization will have to be with them if you are to acquire any of the storage.

I trust this will prove satisfactory.

Yours very truly,

Donald C. Norseth
